CHS SENIORS MAKING AN IMPACT

Each year, the Senior Class at Charlotte High School completes service projects that benefit the Charlotte community. As one of this year's projects, a group of students with the help of Ag Mechanics teacher Nick Thompson, created decorative, metal lawn ornaments. Using the Agricultural Science Department's plasma cutter they cut the Oriole head and welded a metal post to it. They finished it off by painting the entire lawn ornament.

The group decided to donate several to Washington Elementary to sell with the proceeds benefiting the younger Orioles. They are available at the school office for $15 each. Washington will be using the money to purchase positive behavior rewards and incentives. The CHS Seniors involved in this project are; Lauren Wilson, Kelsey Klont, Hannah Hard, Nathan Hard, Kaity Farrell, Chandler Keusch, Raymond McLeod, Blake Malerba and Jesse Johnston. Thank you CHS Seniors!!
