Hello, Parkview Parents,

I think we are all wondering when spring will come. We appreciate so much that you continue to encourage your students to read and practice math facts at home even on the non school days. Our reading log numbers were some of the best today!

It is a four day week for the next couple of weeks for President's Day Mid Winter Break. There is no school on Friday and Monday of the following week. We hope we are all the days in between!

There is much to celebrate next week-We have been in school for 100 days next Wednesday. Also, on this very same day we count ourselves as students for Michigan and also we will all be traveling to the CPAC in the afternoon to see the Youth for Arts presentation of "Madeline." This live production is done by professional actors and is a great experience for all of our students to see a very well loved book being performed as a play. Thank you to our great PTO for sponsoring this adventure for all of our students.

Due to our need to leave early on Wednesday afternoon, we will be having sack lunch day for lunch. There will only be one lunch choice on this day. The students who order lunch will be "packing" their own lunch from a selection of food and then we will be eating before we go to the play in our classrooms, while our specials still continue to be held. Students who prefer to bring their own sack lunch on this day, are welcome to do so.

Enjoy the sunshine this weekend and keep your fingers together for "light" snow. KIM
